November: A Month to Remember.....

It is always difficult to understand death or make sense of the loss of a loved one through death. We would want our loved ones to be with us always and yet we know that just as we are born, we must die. These early days of November are days to pause, reflect and pray for those who have died particularly our nearest and dearest.

This is the month when we make a lot of visits to the cemetery. It is not an empty or meaningless gesture. It is always good to remember the dead and those who are dying. Our belief is that death is not the end but a beginning for the soul or spirit of the person who has died. Our belief is that our loved ones who have died are still near to us but not physically with us. Trying to put this into words is never easy.

The only words that really matter to us in these days are to our loved ones who have died. Some of these words might be: I still miss you, thank you for the memories, you are remembered with love, your name is still very much part of our family life and conversation, not a day goes by that I don't think of you, I think of you every time I go to Mass, you will never be forgotten and may you rest in peace. Amen

Father, have mercy on those who have died in the peace of Christ and receive them into the home you have prepared for them.

Fr. Kevin
